Notebook Stand II

Issue April 2009

Your mobile working place – optimized at the desk

Pages 2

More and more stationary desktop work places are replaced by flexible and lightweight notebooks. Sometimes however working longer with notebooks becomes a bit uncomfortable, because keyboard and display are inseparable and so the user has to remain in a fixed position.

The special designed Notebook Stand II is a perfect solution for long-running usage of notebooks in office and home environments. To position the notebook display into the proper height immediately, the Notebook Stand II is the right implement. In combination with an external keyboard and an external mouse, you can create your personal notebook working place.

Ease of use

- Easy manual adjustability
- Lower neck strain compared to the conventional use of mobile devices
- Higher productivity by natural and comfortable work posture
- Comfortable work by expandability to adequate steady state work place
- For projectors: Generous height and tilt range minimizes skewed images and obstructions—reduces or eliminates the need for keystone corrections within the projector
- Including mounting kit for fixing a Port Replicator

Reliability

- Solid and stable construction
- Scratch-resistant, high quality surface
- Insusceptible to shock
